Fujisawa Manufacturing Works Co., Ltd., an affiliate of Unipres Corporation accounted for by the equity method in its consolidated accounts, decided on July 7, 2005, to withdraw from the business of manufacturing automotive parts.

Since its establishment in 1956, Fujisawa Manufacturing Works has engaged in manufacture of automotive car body parts, dies and equipment, but in spite of efforts by its management following the bursting of the bubble economy, and management assistance from Unipres Corporation, it eventually reached this decision on a business withdrawal.

Upon being informed of this decision by the management of Fujisawa Manufacturing Works, on July 8 Unipres Corporation began taking steps to transfer responsibility for the production of parts to other companies, in order to ensure that its customers' manufacturing activities are not hindered in any way.

Unipres Corporation intends to provide financial assistance to Fujisawa Manufacturing Works to help ensure that the withdrawal is achieved smoothly, will help that company's employees to secure employment, and hopes also to continue conducting business with the related suppliers. The financial assistance to Fujisawa Manufacturing Works is expected to have an insignificant impact on Unipres Corporation's consolidated results in the current fiscal year.
